PREFACE.

The following pages comprise the contents of the Record Book of the Annual Town Meetings of the Township of Orange from 1807 to 1845, the same being reproduced as nearly verbatim as modern types will allow. To these is added interesting extracts from the old Township Committee Book for the same series of years, and other interesting matter.

The old record books were discovered by accident in the Orange National Bank building and were republished in the columns of The Orange Chronicle.

Not the least interesting of the contents of this little book will be found the personal notes of the old residents which have been prepared with great care. They will be found to contain about all that is generally known of the old-time officials of the 'Township of Orange.' That some errors will inevitably creep into such an attempt at biographical sketches goes without saying, but it is thought that as a whole they are complete and reliable.

At a Special town meeting of the Inhabitants of the Township of Orange held at the house of B. Day, on the 8th day of February, 1840 by order of the Town Committee. To take into consideration the expediency of resisting the the contemplated encroachments of the township of Clinton, upon the territory of the Township of Orange, and defending by all proper measures the common interests and rights of the Township of Orange. Henry B. Campbell was chosen Moderator, Philip Kingsly Jabez Pierson & Calvin Dodd was appointed a committee to report resols. The committee reported the following preamble and resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

Whereas notice has been given and an application pursuant to such notice, made to the Legislature of this State, by certain citizens of the township of Clinton in the county of Essex for an alteration of the boundary line between that Township and Township of Orange—

And Whereas the line sought to be changed is one accurately established by the deliberate action of the Legislature, on application of the citizens of Orange for a restoration of Territory unjustly and improperly taken from them and without due notice

And Whereas, those who by the proposed alteration would be placed within the limits of Clinton, are unanimously opposed to such a transfer or change of position and jurisdiction, and have ever strenuously remonstrated against it

Therefore, Resolved by the Citizens of the Township of Orange, in Town meeting assembled, that the existing Boundary line between the Township Clinton and Orange having been established upon a fair, full and impartial investigation of the subject and hearing of parties, ought not to be changed or altered.—

Resolved that we deprecate the rumored attempt to unsettle the existing boundary as harrassing and expensive to those residing near the present line and within the limits of Orange, and who are unanimously opposed to the change, and as an unjustifiable effort to detract from the limits of Orange, a portion of her Territory and Citizens, for a mere acquisition of Taxable property, and without a colorable pretext that the present line is either incorrect or injurious to those residing in its immediate vicinity.

Resolved, that we will defend the common rights of the Township of Orange by all Lawful means and measures, and in the prosecution of that object will oppose any alteration of the present Boundary Line by which our Territory will be deminished.

Resolved, That the committee on resolutions be directed to draw up a remonstrance to be signed by the Moderator and Clerk in behalf of this meeting, to be presented to the Legislature, and that Daniel Babbit added to said Committee.

Resolved, that Albert Pierson and Stephen D. Day be a committee to present the foregoing proceeding to the Legislature.

Resolved, that the proceedings of this meeting published in the Newark Daily Advertiser.

PERSONAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

BY J. H. C.

Amos Harrison, "Esq.," the Moderator of the first town meeting in 1807, and re-elected to that position at various times until 1823, was in his day a very prominent citizen. He was the fifth in descent from Sergeant Richard Harrison, who came to Newark with the Colonists in 1666-7, and was a son of Matthew Harrison, a brother of Major Aaron Harrison, who was the father of Aaron Burr Harrison, who died in East Orange in 1884. Amos was born in 1755 and died in 1832.

Nathaniel Bruen, the first Town Clerk, was born in 1769 and died in 1829. His wife was Abby, daughter of Captain George Harrison, of Bloomfield. He was a prominent teacher and lived on Main street in a house still standing, afterwards the home of his brother-in-law, Elder John Nicol, whose wife Ann was Bruen's wife's sister. He moved from Orange in 1814. Mr. Bruen was the fifth in descent from John Bruen, son of Obadiah, who came to Newark with the Colonists in 1667, the line being Obadiah, John, Eleazor, Timothy.

Dr. Isaac Pierson, who was elected Assessor at the first town meeting, was in his day a notable physician in the Oranges. He was the second in descent from Dr. Matthew Pierson to Dr. William Pierson, to Dr. William Pierson Jr., the present well known physician. His line in descent was Dr. Matthias, 1734-1809. Samuel, 1698-1781. Samuel, 1663-1730. Thomas, Sr., who came to Newark with the Colonists in 1666. Dr. Isaac Pierson was born in 1770 and died in 1833.

Nathan Squier, who was elected Assessor at the first town meeting, was probably a son of Captain Henry Squier, of South Orange. He was born in 1766 and died in 1827. He had four sons and a daughter, Hannah, who married Daniel Condit.

Daniel Condit, who was elected Assessor in 1810 at the fourth annual town meeting, was the oldest son of Amos Condit and Dorcas Harrison, and was born in 1783. He was the fifth in descent from John Condit, in Newark, 1678. His election at the age of 27, and continuance in office until his death, was a tribute to worth and moral excellence. About 1810 he built the house on the corner of Main and Prospect streets, East Orange, where he resided until his death in 1820. His only son, Daniel Harrison Condit, resides with a married daughter in East Orange.

John Quinby, the Collector elected at the second town meeting in 1808, and continued in office as Collector or Assessor until 1835, was a son of Moses Quinby. He was born in 1770 and died in 1839. His father, Moses, lived on Main street on the site of the present depot of the Watchung Branch of the Erie railroad in Orange. His brother Caleb was Town Clerk for one year, 1808. John was the sixth in descent from William Quinby, of Stratford, Conn., the line being William, John, Josiah, Josiah, Moses.

Daniel Williams, who was elected a member of the first Town Committee in 1807, was a son of Eleazer Williams and Mary Ball, probably a daughter of Timothy Ball, of Thomas. He (Daniel) was born in 1771 and died in August, 1836. His wife was Naomi Dodd, of James, of John, born in 1780 and died in 1851. He was the fifth in descent from Matthew Williams, of Wethersfield, Conn., whose son Matthew, came to Newark and was admitted a planter in 1680. He soon after made his residence in the Oranges, having his home in what was long known as Tory Corner, at the foot of the mountain, near the terminus of the Orange and Newark Traction Company. Daniel had two children; an only son, Abraham, was a well known man in his day in the Oranges, a cabinet maker by trade, and lived on Washington street, east of Valley road, in West Orange.

John Dean, elected one of the first Town Committee in 1807, was a shoe manufacturer, his home and place of business being on Main street, a short distance east of Prospect street, East Orange. His father, John, was the first of the name known by the writer in the Oranges. There were three sons, two of whom were in the shoe business, and one daughter, Jane, who married Phineas Campbell, son of John Campbell. John Dean was born in 1757 and died in 1851. He was twice married, his first wife and the mother of his seven children, was Nancy Harrison, daughter of Isaac Harrison, and was the fifth in descent from Sergeant Richard Harrison. The only one of the male members of the Dean family in the Oranges is Horace J., a grandson of John, residing on Hillyer street, this city.

Abijah Harrison, known as Captain Abijah, the third member of the first Town Committee, was a son of Matthew Harrison and Martha Dodd and was the fifth in descent from Sergeant Richard Harrison, one of the founders of Newark. His grandfather, Samuel Harrison, was one of the early settlers in the Oranges, and married Jemima Williams, daughter of Matthew. Captain Abijah was born in 1751 and died in 1846; his wife was Sarah Ogden. He had six sons and three daughters. One of his sons, Abijah, Jr., inherited the homestead and was known to the older ones of the present generation. The house built by his grandfather, Samuel, in 1723, is still standing on Washington street, east of the Valley road, in West Orange.

Stephen D. Day, generally known as Squire Day, was elected as the fourth member of the first Town Committee. He was born in Camptown, now Irvington, in 1772. When a young man he came to Orange, where he married Sarah Lindsley, daughter of Judge John Lindsley, and after her death her sister, Mary Lindsley. He was in partnership with his brother-in-law, John Morris Lindsley, during the early years of his business life. About 1810 he built on the corner of Main and Day street, the house being a combination of store and dwelling; here he resided until his death in 1856. Judge Day was the fifth in descent from George Day, son of George, the ancestor in this country. The line being George, Joseph, Jonathan, David, Stephen D.

Captain Thomas Baldwin, who was elected as the fifth member of the first Town Committee, lived at Lyons Farms, in the southern end of the township. He was a son of Nathan Baldwin and Joanna Meeker, and was born in 1746. His wife was Sarah Camp, daughter of Job Camp. Captain Thomas Baldwin married for his second wife Elizabeth Bailey, widow of Abner Bailey. He died in 1821, leaving four sons and two daughters. Captain Thomas was the fifth in descent from Joseph Baldwin, the ancestor. The line being Joseph, Jonathan, John, Nathan, Captain Thomas.

Stephen Tichenor, who was elected as one of the Surveyors of the Highways at the first town meeting, was a son of John Tichenor and Mary Williams and was born about 1778. He was the sixth in descent from Martin Tichenor and Mary Charles. The line being Martin (one of the settlers of Newark [1667] from Branford, Conn.); John, Martin, David, Stephen. His wife was Jane Pierson, daughter of Zenas, and was the fifth in descent from Thomas Pierson, the Newark ancestor. Stephen Tichenor had four sons and one daughter. The youngest son, Stephen W., was born in 1813 and died in 1883. He was a well known citizen of the Oranges, and Waldo B. Tichenor, who died 1892 at the age of 52 years, was a grand-son.

Jonas Smith, who was elected at the first town meeting as a Surveyor of the Highways, was a son of James Smith and Eleanor Harrison. He was born in 1773 and was held in high esteem and often elected to public office. He was twice elected to the Legislature and was a County Freeholder for many years. He died in 1848. He was the fourth in descent from James Smith, the ancestor, and one of the first settlers of the Oranges. James, the ancestor, was born about 1665 and died in 1727. His wife was Mary Crane, daughter of Deacon Azariah Crane, son of Jasper, the ancestor in Newark 1666. Jonas Smith was married twice. His first wife was Peninah Ward, daughter of Thomas. His second wife was Eliza (Clark) Tucker. Two of the sons of Jonas Smith are living in this city, George Washington and Marshall N. Smith.

John Lindsley, Esq., and Samuel Condit, selected at the first town meeting to represent the infant township in the County Board of Chosen Freeholders, were truly representative men from old Orange families. The first named was a son of Benjamin Lindsley and Mary Morris and a grand-son of Ebenezer Lindsley, who came to Newark with his father from Branford, Conn., in 1667, when two years of age. Judge John was an only son, born in 1752. He married Phebe Baldwin, daughter of Israel Baldwin, of Joseph, of Benjamin, of Joseph the ancestor and one of the first settlers of Newark. Judge John had two sons and six daughters. His oldest son was John Morris, of the well known house of Lindsleys in this city. He was born in 1784 and died in 1863. His two sons, Nelson and George, succeeded their father in the business. Judge John died in 1819. His widow died in 1839.

Samuel Condit, the associate of Judge John Lindsley on the County Board of Chosen Freeholders, was a son of Daniel Condit, a farmer in Pleasant Valley, between the First and Second mountains. Samuel was the fifth in descent from John Condit, who settled in Newark in 1678. He was born in 1761 and married Hannah Harrison, daughter of Ichabod Harrison, of Nathaniel, of Joseph, of Sergeant Richard, one of the first settlers of Newark. After his marriage he lived on a farm in what was then known as Tory Corner, where he died in 1822. His widow died in 1855. He had a family of eleven children, three sons and eight daughters. His second son, Ira H., is living at Roseland in his 89th year. His oldest son Samuel, who was born in 1798, and died in 1864, was the father of Samuel Dixon Condit, of East Orange, and William P. Condit, of this city.

David Munn, elected one of the Commissioners of Appeal at the first town meeting, was a son of Benjamin Munn, of John, the ancestor of the Munn family in the Oranges. He was the fourth child and second son of a family of eleven children. His sister Hepzibah, the youngest of the family, was the wife of Jotham Condit. He was born in 1761 and married Abigail Baldwin, daughter of Moses, who was the fourth in descent from Joseph Baldwin, the Newark ancestor. He was an extensive farmer, his home being on what is now known as Munn avenue, East Orange. His oldest son Lewis was the father of Thompson Condit Munn, of East Orange, and of Asa B. Munn, who died in 1874, and who was the father of Joseph L. Munn, the well known lawyer.

Jabez D. Kilburn, second one of the Commissioners of Appeal, was probably a son of Gershom Kilburn, of South Orange, who appears among the signers in 1753 on a subscription towards building the second meeting house. Jabez D. was born in 1773 and died in 1849. He was a farmer, his home being on the South Orange road south of Center street. His wife was Esther Baldwin, daughter of Isaac, of David, a great-grand-son of Joseph, the ancestor. They had three sons and three daughters. The oldest son was Thomas D., born 1797, who married Abby Condit, daughter of Samuel, the Freeholder. Thomas D. Kilburn died in 1882. His son Ira C. is a resident of South Orange.

Colonel Abram Winans, elected third member as Commissioners of Appeal at the first town meeting, and subsequently as Moderator and Town Committeeman for several years, was a man of note in his day. He came from an Elizabeth-town family and was probably the first of the name in the Oranges. His house on Main street, next above Parrow brook, was subsequently the house of Albert Pierson, the father of Albert F. Pierson, of East Orange. Col. Winans was a shoemaker by trade but was engaged for several years in the manufacture of leather, his tannery and vats being on the east of his dwelling next to Parrow brook. He was born in 1772 and died in 1859. His wife was Sarah Cone. He had two sons, one, David Ryerson Winans, formerly of East Orange, who died in 1883. His wife was Frances Caroline Freeman, daughter of Jotham Freeman, of Cyrus, of a well known Orange family.

Noah Matthews, who was elected Constable at the first town meeting, and at subsequent meetings as Moderator or Judge of Election, was a son of William, of Daniel, the first of the name known by the writer in the Oranges. Daniel, the ancestor, or his son Daniel, tradition says, lived in a house built on Park street, west side, a few feet from Main. His wife was Rebecca Baldwin, daughter of Joseph, of Jonathan, of Joseph. He (Daniel) is presumed to have died in early manhood, as his widow married John Campbell. They had three sons and two daughters. Noah, the eldest, was born in 1770 and married Phebe Harrison, daughter of Simcon Harrison, of Amos, of Samuel, of Samuel, of Sergeant Richard. He lived on what is now the northeast corner of Main street and Essex avenue, this city. He had one child, Nancy, who married Dr. Daniel Babbitt. She died in 1828. Noah died in 1851.

Joel Condit, elected one of the Overseers of the Highway at the first town meeting, was a son of Daniel Condit, son of Samuel, grandson of John, the ancestor. He was a farmer living in the northern part of the township, between the mountains. His wife was Sarah Wheeler. They had four sons and three daughters; one of his sons, Joel W. Condit, was in his day a prominent business man in Newark. His daughter, Mary Condit, was the wife of the Rev. Dr. Horace S. Bishop, rector emeritus of Christ Episcopal church, of East Orange.

Capt. Zenas Pierson, one of the Overseers of the Highway elected at the first town meeting, represented the mountain district, and was the youngest of the family of nine children of Samuel Pierson, a grandson of Thomas, the ancestor. Capt. Zenas, grandfather of Samuel, has been referred to as coming to Newark with his father when two years of age. As there is no record of his birth or death, his age at this time is computed at sixty-seven years. His wife was Betsy (Elizabeth) Nixon. They had three sons and two daughters. A son, Zenas, is said to have married Catherine Townley, and one of his daughters, Jane, was the wife of Stephen Tichenor, the father of Stephen W. Tichenor, referred to in earlier notes.

James Williams, elected at the first town meeting as one of the Overseers of the Highways, was a son of Nathaniel Williams and Mary Pierson, daughter of Samuel Pierson, who died in 1816. She was a sister of Capt. Zenas Pierson. His father, Nathaniel Williams, was the second son of Amos Williams (1690-1754) and Mary Nutman, daughter of James Nutman (1700-1777). Amos was the eldest son of Matthew, born in 1651.

Caleb Williams. The identity of Caleb Williams, who was elected Overseer of the Highways at the first town meeting, must remain in doubt, there being two persons of the name and nearly of the same age. The oldest, born in 1763, was a son of Isaac Williams, of William, of Matthew, of Matthew. His wife was Phebe Ward, daughter of Zenas (1765-1849). He died in 1844. They had one son and four daughters. The only son, Albert, born in 1797, died in 1869. His wife was Phebe Frost, daughter of Josiah Frost. They lived on Washington street, near Rosedale cemetery, the house now being used as the trolley line depot. Two of his sons, Josiah B., and Caleb A. Williams, are resident of this city. The other Caleb Williams was born in 1767, and was a son of Benjamin, of Amos, of Matthew. His wife was Sarah Kilburn (Beach), daughter of Gersham. He died in 1811. He had two daughters, Catherine E., born in 1792 and died in 1874, who married Abijah Harrison, of Capt. Abijah. The other daughter, Phebe, married Abram Sandford, and after his death, John Augustus McDonald.

Daniel Kilburn was chosen at the first town meeting as one of the Overseers of the Highways and afterwards as Town Clerk for six successive years. In 1817 he succeeded Ira Munn as proprietor of the Park house, corner of Main and Park streets, which he conducted for several years. His public position, sociability of manner and family connections made him one of the best known men of the Oranges. He was born in 1777 and died in 1848. His wife was Phebe Baldwin daughter of Jephtha Baldwin of Ezekiel of John of Jonathan of Joseph, the ancestor. She was born in 1777 and died in 1839. Daniel was a son, or probably a grandson of Gershom Kilburn. He had four sons and five daughters. His son Gershom was born in 1803. He married, first Harriet Williams, daughter of Colonel William Williams, and second Susan Crane, daughter of Joseph Crane of Daniel. His daughter Lydia was the wife of Abram Mandeville, of this city, who died in 1886. Another daughter, Mary C., is the wife of Samuel C. Jones, of Munn avenue, East Orange.

Joseph Condit, who was elected one of the Overseers of the Highways at the first town meeting, was a son of Samuel Condit of Samuel, the Orange ancestor, who was a grandson of John, the Newark ancestor. He was born in 1762. He married Elizabeth Harrison, daughter of Ichabod Harrison of Nathaniel of Joseph of Sergeant Richard, the Newark ancestor. She was born in 1769 and died in 1852. He died in 1836. He was a farmer and shoe manufacturer, and also carried on the business of tanner and currier, his place of business and residence being at the foot of the old Mount Pleasant turnpike in West Orange. He had four sons and one daughter. His two sons, Ichabod Condit and Stephen Condit, carried on their father's business for several years. Ichabod was the father of Joseph A. Condit, who died in this city in 1881. Stephen Condit was the father of Albert P. Condit, the well known lawyer.

Matthias Pierson, Jr., who was elected one of the Overseers of the Highways at the first town meeting, was born in 1775 and was the second one of three sons of Dr. Matthias Pierson and Phebe Nutman, daughter of Isaac Nutman, of Elizabeth town. Dr. Matthias Pierson was son of Samuel Pierson, of Samuel, of Thomas, the ancestor. He had three sons and five daughters. Matthias, the second son, married Mary Baldwin. He made his residence at the ancestral home between the Orange mountains. He died in 1812. Of his five children two sons and one daughter survived him.

Peter Dean, who was elected one of the Overseers of the Highways at the first town meeting, was the youngest of three brothers, one of whom (John) was one of the first Town Committeemen. He was born in 1765 and was the son of John Dean, the first of the name known by the writer in the Oranges. Peter Dean married Rachel Munn, daughter of Benjamin Munn, the Orange ancestor. He was a cooper by trade and occupation, his home and place of business being on Main street west of Scotland street. He had three sons and one daughter, Polly or (Mary) married Nathaniel Lindsley, of Daniel, of Nathaniel, of Ebenezer, of Ebenezer, of Francis the ancestor. Of the three sons David married Mahetta Jones, of Moses. Charles married Lydia Tompkins, of Enos, and Viner married Rhoda Quinby. They had one daughter, Abby, who married Isaac Preston Baldwin, who died in this city in 1803 and was the father of Frank W. Baldwin, editor of the Orange Chronicle.

Daniel Dodd, who was elected one of the Overseers of the Highways at the first town meeting, was the fifth son of Joseph Dodd and his second wife, Sarah Williams, daughter of Amos Williams. Daniel Dodd was the fifth in descent from Daniel Dodd, the English ancestor, and was the fourth one in his line bearing the name of Daniel. He was born and lived on Center street in the ancestral home. The house is still standing and is owned and occupied by Stephen T. Smith. He died unmarried in 1856. Joseph Dodd's family was a notable one in the history of the Oranges. He first married Mary Lindsley, daughter of Ebenezer Lindsley, of Ebenezer, of Francis, the Newark ancestor. They had three sons and two daughters. The oldest son, Matthias Dodd, was the grandfather of Matthias M. Dodd, of East Orange and Dr. Bethuel L. Dodd. By his second wife Joseph Dodd had four sons and three daughters. Moses, the third son, was the builder of the First Presbyterian and Brick churches. His youngest son, Allen, was the grandfather of Joseph M. Dodd.

Abraham Harrison, known in his day as Deacon or "Master Abram," was elected one of the Overseers of the Highways at the first town meeting. In 1820 he was elected a member of the first school committee and was re-elected each year until 1837. He was a local preacher and teacher. His father, Jared, was an extensive farmer and cider manufacturer. His house, situated on Main street, east of High, is still standing. Deacon Abraham married Phebe Crowell and had two daughters. The eldest died in 1848 unmarried, the other married Philip Cornish. Deacon Abraham's mother was Hannah Baldwin and was the fifth in descent from Jonathan, the ancestor in this country. His father's line was from Sergeant Richard, being Sergeant Richard, Joseph, Joseph, Jared, Abraham.

The Ball family is among the oldest in the settlement of the Oranges. Edward Ball of Branford Conn., came to Newark in 1666 with the Colonists and was High Sheriff of Essex Co. in 1693. His wife was probably Abigail, daughter of Aaron Blakely and Mary Dodd. They had four sons and two daughters, one of whom, Abigail, born in 1660, married Daniel Harrison, of Sergeant Richard. The other daughter Lydia, born in 1675, married Joseph Peck. His sons Joseph and Thomas were the ancestors of the Orange families. Caleb the oldest son, had one son, Deacon John, who lived in Morris Co. His son Moses, born in 1685, married Mary Tichenor of John of Martin the ancestor. They had no children.

Joseph B. Ball, elected one of the Overseers of the Road at the first town meeting, was born in 1778. He was a son of Joseph Ball and Rachel Tompkins, of South Orange. He was the fifth in descent from Edward Ball the ancestor, the line being Edward, Thomas, Aaron, Joseph, Joseph B. His wife was Eunice Harrison, of Richard, of Joseph of Joseph. He died in 1842. He was a shoemaker by trade, but devoted most of his time to the cultivation of his farm. He had four sons and two daughters. Amzi the eldest married—Meeker. He died in 1890. Rev. Eleazer married Electa Rich Philander, born in 1814, was a farmer in South Orange. He married Sarah A. Guerin, of Morris county, and had three sons and two daughters. Richard H. Ball, born in 1820, married Mary F. Harris and had four sons and four daughters. Hannah, one of the daughters of Joseph B. Ball, married the Rev. Joseph Dance.

Timothy Ball, who was elected one of the Overseers of the Roads at the first town meeting, was a son of Ezekiel Ball and Mary Jones. He was born in South Orange in 1758, and died in 1828. He was married twice, first to Mary Crowell and second to Mary (Edwards) Resch. They had eight children. Timothy Ball was the fourth in descent from Edward the ancestor. The line being Edward, Thomas, Ezekiel, Timothy. His father Ezekiel was a carpenter by trade and inherited the homestead of his father Thomas, in South Orange. Timothy Ball's grandfather Thomas, born in 1687 and who died in 1744, was a blacksmith by trade. His wife was Sarah Davis, daughter of Thomas Davis of Stephen.

Major Jabez Pierson, who was elected a Town Committeeman at the second town meeting in 1808, and was also elected as the Moderator in 1809 and Judge of Election in 1811, was a son of Samuel Pierson, Jr. and Phebe Harrison, daughter of Joseph Harrison. He was born about 1755, and died about 1825. He was the second son in a family of five sons and four daughters. He was the fifth in remove from Thomas, Sr., the Newark ancestor. The descent being Thomas, Sr., Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Jr., Major Jabez. Of the sons of Samuel Pierson, Jr., Erastus, born in 1753, married Eunice Freeman, daughter of Abel Freeman. Bethuel, born about 1767, married Mary Condit, daughter of Matthew Condit. Jotham, born in 1772, married Lillis Condit, daughter of Matthew Condit. The homestead of Jabez Pierson and his father, Samuel, was on the north side of the South Orange road, opposite Seton Hall College. He was for some years captain of the sloop "Orange," which was owned and employed in the interest of the First church congregation from 1784 to 1800. Major Jabez was a private in the Revolution and probably received his title of Major in the militia service. He married Martha, daughter of Stephen Harrison and Lydia Williams. Nathaniel Harrison, the father of Stephen, was born in 1705 and died in 1779. He lived on Harrison street, East Orange, and probably his father, Joseph, who was the second son of Sergeant Richard, the Newark ancestor, may have ended his days in his Orange home. Joseph died in 1742. Lydia Williams, the mother of Martha, the wife of Major Jabez Pierson, was born in 1731, and was a daughter of Matthew Williams of Matthew, the Newark ancestor, who died at his home in Orange in 1732. Major Jabez had two sons and two daughters. Israel married Mary A. Willis and had four sons and two daughters. Amzi married Mary Riker and had a daughter, Mary. Louisa, the eldest daughter, who died in 1867, was the wife of Aaron M. Condit, East Orange, who died in 1890. Lydia, the youngest child, was the first wife of Bethuel D. Harrison, of East Orange, who died in 1896. Jabez P. Condit, a well known resident of West Orange, and a son of Aaron M. Condit and Lydia Pierson is a grandson and is the only known male descendent of Major Jabez Pierson in the Oranges.

An old account book of Major Jabez Pierson shows a few items that may prove of public interest as indicating the habits and wants of our early and venerated ancestors. In his account with Rev. Jedediah Chapman under the date of December, 1795, among other charges are the following: $4\frac{1}{2}$ gallons of rum of Captain Crane, £2 16s 3d; April, 1796, freight, 2 bbl. cider and sundries, £0 2s 0d; November, 1796, freight, 2 bbl. cider, 1 do. apples and sundries, £0 4s 6d. His daughter Sarah married Joel Harrison of Major Daniel. Mary married Cyrus Baldwin of Joel of Aaron. Abby, born in 1800, was the wife of Joel Baldwin of Aaron. Harriet of Josiah married James E. Smith, born 1798 and the eldest son of Capt. Jonas, who died in 1848. Josiah O. Baldwin of Josiah married Ann, daughter of David Munn of Benjamin, the ancestor in the Oranges. His daughter Mary E. is the wife of Samuel D. Condit of East Orange.

Samuel Brown, who was elected one of the Commissioners of Appeal at the second town meeting, was probably a son of James Brown. Samuel Brown was one of four sons of James, whose will in 1720 names them as Samuel, Josiah, Isaac, Aaron. The family is one of the oldest in the settlement of the Oranges, the family home being in South Orange. The line in descent is from John Brown, of Milford, Conn., who came to Newark in 1667. John Brown and his wife, Mary, had two sons and six daughters. John, Jr., the eldest, had four sons and five daughters. One daughter, Mary, married Thomas Pierson, Jr. of Rev. Abraham. Another daughter, Hannah, was the second wife of Joseph Riggs of Edward. Phebe, another daughter, was the wife of Daniel Dodd of Daniel and another daughter, Elizabeth, married Samuel Freeman of Stephen.

Joseph Brown, son of John of John, married and had four sons and three daughters. Joseph, the eldest son of Joseph, inherited the South Orange homestead. He married Margaret Johnson, daughter of Joseph Johnson of Thomas, the Newark ancestor. Joseph had Job, Daniel, Eleanor and Hannah, who married William Camp of Nathaniel. Stephen, the second son of Joseph of John, died in 1767. James, the third son, was the father of Samuel Brown.

Samuel Munn, elected as Constable at the second town meeting and as the Judge of Election at the subsequent election, was widely known in his day as the owner and proprietor of the public house, corner of Main and Park streets, afterwards known as the Park House. He was proprietor of the Park House in 1780 until his death in 1812. His son Ira succeeded him until 1816 when Samuel Kilburn became the proprietor. Daniel Munn is believed to have been a son or grandson of Samuel Munn, of Morristown. He was one of three brothers, Benjamin and Joseph being resident in the Oranges, and they were the ancestors of the family in Orange and Bloomfield.

Jotham Condit, whose name frequently appears among those elected to serve as town officials, was the eldest son of Samuel Condit, Jr. by his second wife Martha Carter, the widow of Stephen Wilcox, of Elizabethtown, N. J. He was born in 1775. His father lived on the Livingston road on the west slope of the First mountain and was a farmer by occupation. He was the fourth in descent from John the Newark ancestor. The line being John, Peter, Samuel Sr., Samuel Jr. He had issue by his first wife Mary (daughter of Joseph Smith, of James the Orange ancestor) six sons. The eldest was Dr. John Condit, born 1755, died in 1834. Capt. Moses, the third son, born in 1760, died 1838, was the grandfather of Charles A. Lighthipe. Joseph, the fourth son, born in 1762, died 1836, was the father of Ichabod and Stephen Condit, noticed in previous notes. The Rev. Aaron, the fifth son, was born in 1765, and died in 1852. Jotham Condit, of Samuel, Jr., married Hephzibah Munn, daughter of Benjamin Munn. He was a shoe manufacturer and lived on Main street, east of Clinton street, East Orange. He had a family of two sons and six daughters. Aaron M., the eldest, born in 1799, died at his home in East Orange in 1890, leaving an unmarried daughter and a son Jabez P. Condit, of West Orange. A younger son Amzi, born in 1830, died in this city in 1865, leaving one son, Oscar H. Condit, a resident of East Orange. Jotham H. Condit, the youngest of the family of Jotham, is a resident of East Orange. Two only of the daughters of Jotham Condit are living. Jemima M., the widow of Philip Condit, of Daniel Day Condit, who lived on Center street this city, and was the father of Ira A. Condit, of Jersey, Ohio. The other daughter is Elizabeth R., the widow of George A. Dodd, of Allen. She resides in East Orange and is the mother of Joseph M. Dodd, of this city, and Allen Dodd, of Philipsburg, N. J. The Campbell family. Among the subscribers for the erection of the second meeting house, in 1753 appear the names of John Campbell and James Campbell. John and Benjamin Campbell were members of the Mountain Society in 1756. Benjamin had Moses and Aaron. Nothing further is known of Benjamin's family. John Campbell married Rebecca Baldwin Matthews, the widow of Daniel Matthews. They had two sons and five daughters. Of Caleb, the eldest, nothing is known. Phineas, the second son (1755-1813), married Jane Dean, daughter of John Dean, of Orange. They had three sons and probably four daughters. Lydia, daughter of Phineas Campbell (1800-1866), married Silas Munn, of Amos Mary, another daughter of Phineas, married Adonijah Osmun, while Catherine married Amos Williams, of Governor Benjamin.

Henry Benson Campbell, elected in 1821 one of the Commissioners of Appeal and, at subsequent elections, to the positions of Moderator or Judge of Election was, in his day, a representative man. He was the second son of Phineas Campbell and Jane Dean, daughter of John. Henry B. married Elizabeth Munn, daughter of David Munn, of Benjamin. He was a shoe manufacturer, his home and place of business being on South Main street, east of Hickory street, this city. He had four sons and three daughters; all but one son and two daughters died in infancy. Mary Anne, born in 1813, married Philip Ward, of Timothy. She died in 1875 and he died in 1886. A married son, Linus Ward, is a resident of East Orange. Jane Louisa, daughter of Henry B., never married. Charles H., the only son who grew to manhood, born in 1827, never married and died in this city in 1882.

John Quinby, the Collector, concerning whom a note is printed on page 1, was a son of Josiah Quinby, and not of Moses Quinby as there stated. Caleb Quinby, born the same year with John (1770), was a son of Moses Quinby, the eldest brother of John. Josiah Quinby (1726-1805) was a son of Josiah of Josiah of John of William, the ancestor. His wife was Martha Harrison (1728-1791), daughter of Joseph Harrison, of Joseph of Sergeant Richard. They had twelve children, six sons and six daughters. John was the youngest (1770-1839). One of the sons of Josiah was Aaron (1754-1824), who had Daniel (1780-1851), who married Martha Tichenor (1784-1862). They had three sons and two daughters. The eldest son was Aaron Quinby (1807-1881). He was widely known in this city. His wife was Matilda Williams (1809-1885), daughter of Jeniah Williams of Zopher of Joseph of Gershom. Caleb, of Moses, born in 1770, married Rhoda Tompkins, daughter of Joseph Tompkins. They had three sons and four daughters. The youngest was Charles, born in 1807, and died at his home in East Orange in 1886.

Isaac Baldwin, who was elected in 1820 one of the Overseers of the Highways, was the second of three sons in a family of eight children of Caleb Baldwin (1757-1799) and Lydia Johnson. Caleb's descent was from Ezekiel of John of Jonathan, the Newark ancestor. Of the children of Caleb Baldwin, David Johnson, born in 1785, married Nancy M. Hall. They had seven sons and two daughters. The only married daughter, Theodosia Maria, born in 1820, was the wife of Alfred S. Williams of Ebenezer (1818-1849). She married second, Joseph Karge. Of his sons Augustus Smith, born in 1810, married Elizabeth Kinney. He was an Admiral in the United States Navy. James M., born in 1825, married Emily M. Bibly. He resides at Paterson, N. J. The youngest son of Caleb Baldwin was Caleb, born November 28th, 1799. He married first, Sarah Pierson (1802-1834). They had four sons and one daughter, Mary B., who married Caleb Neagles. He married second, Abby D. Munn, daughter of Lewis Munn (1806-1881). They had two sons and two daughters. Caleb, now in his ninety-eighth year, is spending a quiet old age with his married daughter in Newark, N. J.

Isaac Baldwin, son of Caleb Baldwin (1791-1877), married Nancy Hopper (1796-1874). They had four sons and three daughters. Sarah M., the eldest, born in 1819, was the wife of Richard A. Terhune (1817-1885). The second daughter, Martha A., born in 1823, was the wife of Jephtha Harrison (1820-1894), of Abijah, Jr., of Captain Abijah. Caleb Johnson, the eldest son (1817-1889), married Anna M. Gray. They had two children, Clarence W., who married Mary Gould, and Almena G. Lewis M., the youngest son, born in 1828, married Eva Stope. They had four sons and two daughters. He resides in this city.

The Rev. Uzal W. Condit, who was a member of the School Committee from 1842 to 1844, has long been a resident of Easton, Pa. Uzal W. Condit was a son of Uzal Condit and Phebe Wade. His home was in West Orange, between the mountains. He was the sixth in descent from John Condit, the ancestor. Uzal was the second son in a family of six sons and three daughters of Isaac Condit (1859-1829) and Phebe Baldwin, daughter of Benjamin Baldwin, (1760-1835). The Rev. Uzal was born in 1815, and married first, Martha E. Vanhouten.

He married second, Sophia Van Doren. He had one son and four daughters. Mr. Condit was apprenticed at shoe-making with Charles Lighthipe, father of Charles A. Lighthipe, of this city. While working at his trade, he with help from others, entered on a course of preparation for the ministry. He graduated from Williams College in 1847, and in 1850 from Union Theological Seminary. His longest and latest pastorate was for twenty-five years over the Presbyterian church at Easton, Pa., his present home.

William P. Soverel, who was elected in 1821 one of the Overseers of the Highways, was the eldest of a family of two sons and five daughters of Matthias Soverel and Betsey (Elizabeth) Parret (1790-1864). He was born in 1788 and died in 1822. He married Elizabeth, the youngest of eight children of John Wright and Elizabeth Peck (1747-1819), of Deacon Joseph (1702-1772), of Joseph (1675-1746), and Lydia Ball, of Edward, the Newark ancestors. They had five children, two sons and three daughters. The oldest son was Matthias, born in 1816, the father of the Soverels of the Oranges. He resides with his married daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Whitlock, Wilmington, N. C. The ancestor of this branch of the Soverel family in this country was Abraham, born in England in 1716, and died in Orange in 1745. In 1739 he came to this country with an exploring and mining company. At that time or soon after copper mining was being developed in the Doddtown district of the Oranges, a shaft being sunk on the farm of John Dodd, on Second river in the rear of the chapel building on Dodd street, East Orange. Mr. Soverel married in 1741 Jane, daughter of Matthew and Ruth Williams, the Orange ancestors. She was second in a family of four sons and five daughters. They had two children, Jane, born 1743 and Matthias (1745-1767). He married Abigail, the youngest of eight children of Samuel Dodd of Samuel of Daniel, the ancestor. They had one child, Matthias, (1766-1804). He married Betsey Parret (1768-1810), of Hanover, N. J. They had seven children, two sons and five daughters. The eldest son, William P. Soverel, born in 1788, died in 1822. They had five children, two sons and three daughters. Matthias, the eldest and only surviving son, was until recently a well known resident of East Orange.

Jonathan DeCamp, elected in 1844 one of the Overseers of the Highways, was the third of four sons and three daughters of Benjamin DeCamp and Dorcas

Williams, daughter of Jonathan Williams of Samuel of Samuel of Matthew, the ancestor. Jonathan's wife was Margaret Vincent. They had two sons and four daughters. His home is in Roseland, N. J.

As far as is known only three of those elected to town offices even as late as 1844 are now living. One of the three, George Washington Smith, is well known to nearly all old residents. In 1843 his name appears as being elected one of the Surveyors of the Highways. Mr. Smith was the sixth son of Captain Jonas Smith (1773-1848) by his second wife, Eliza Clark, widow of John Tucker (1783-1845). See record of Captain Jonas Smith, page 2. George Washington Smith was born in 1820. He married Margaret Munn, daughter of William Munn, of Aaron of Benjamin, the ancestor. They had five sons and two daughters. Two of the sons died in infancy. The other sons married and have families. The other members of the surviving trio are Uzal W. Condit and Jonathan DeCamp, whose records appear in these notes to-day.

Daniel D. Condit (1783-1839), who was elected in 1824 as one of the Overseers of the Poor and served for several years, resided on Center street. He was the only child of Philip Condit, of Morristown, and Mary Condit (1756-1826), daughter of Daniel Condit, of Samuel, the Orange ancestor. His wife was Achsah Dodd, daughter of Linas Dodd (1789-1855). He was a carpenter by trade and an elder in the First Presbyterian church until his death. He had a family of seven sons and four daughters. Five of the children of Daniel D. Condit are living: Ira A. Condit, in Jersey, Ohio; J. H. Hobert Condit, in Columbus, O.; Daniel H. Condit, in Camden, N. J.; Mary, the widow of George Taylor, in Pataskala, O., and Margaret, an unmarried daughter, in New Jersey.

William Condit, who was elected Collector in 1830, and continued in office until about 1848, was the second son in a family of five sons and three daughters of Captain Moses Condit (1760-1838) and Hannah Smith, daughter of James Smith (1740-1784) of David (1705-1777) of James the ancestor in the Oranges (1665-1727). William Condit was born in 1791 and died in this city in 1883. He married first, Maria Stryker, daughter of Henry Stryker, of Orange (1797-1841). He married second, Hannah Hillyer, a widow, who died in 1847. He had a family of seven sons and three daughters. They all married and had families except the youngest daughter, who died in infancy, and Lewis Fletcher, the youngest son, born in 1842, and who died in the army in 1862. Two of the sons of William are living in the Oranges. Henry S. Condit, born in 1819, married Sarah Robbins, who died in 1850, and second, Matilda Babb. He had no family. Theodore Condit, the other living son of William, born in 1824, married Hannah Maria Hillyer, who died in 1854. He married second, Eunice Lavene Phipany. He had by his first wife two sons and one daughter; by his second wife two sons and three daughters.

William Condit began life as a shoemaker, but early in life turned his attention to mercantile pursuits. His father, Captain Moses Condit, in his later years, kept a store on Main street near Scotland. Probably as early as 1815 William kept a store on Main street north of Center. In 1822 he moved to a store building on the south corner of Main and Center streets owned by Daniel Stryker. This building was destroyed by fire about 1831, when the building recently taken down was built and occupied by him for many years. The only married daughter of Captain Moses Condit was Maria S. (1789-1869), who married Charles Lighthipe (1789-1845). They had five sons and one daughter. Two of the sons, Lewis C. and Charles A., are living in this city.

Job Williams, the last Collector of the township of Orange before the incorporation of "The Town of Orange" in 1860, came from an old Colonial family. He traced his descent from Matthew Williams (1651), the Newark ancestor. Matthew was the third son in a family of four sons and one daughter of Matthew Williams, of Wethersfield, Conn. His wife was Ruth. They had four sons and five daughters. Gershom, the third son, born 1698, married Hannah Lampson. They had five sons and three daughters. Ruth, the eldest daughter, was the wife of Daniel Condit, of Samuel. Another daughter, Joanna, was the wife of David Tichenor (1731-1788). Gershom, the second son (1730), married Martha Condit of Samuel. Joseph, the fourth son of Gershom, of Matthew, married Elizabeth — (1758-1797). They had two children. Susannah, who married Peter Condit (1778-1813) of Nathaniel of Isaac, a grandson of John, the ancestor. Susannah (Williams) Condit died in 1875 at the home of her granddaughter, Eliza P. Lindsley, wife of Ogden W. Lindsley, of East Orange. The only son of Joseph Williams was Zophar, who married Sarah Hedden. She died in 1780. They had six children, one of whom, Jeniah, (1770-1831) married Charlotte Pearce (1776-1863). They had four sons and six daughters. The eldest son was Job (1802-1871). He married Catherine Tichenor (1803-1895), daughter of John Stiles, of Deacon Samuel. Job was a prominent hat manufacturer in Orange, his home and place of business being on Main street on the site of the North Orange Baptist church. He was also a valued member of the (Brick) Second Presbyterian church from its organization, and as above stated the last Collector of the "Township of Orange." He had four sons and one daughter. The youngest son died at 11 years. Leander, the eldest son (1828-1895), was well known in the Oranges. He was twice married; first to Emily Smith, daughter of Daniel Smith. She died in 1870. His second wife was Mary E. McDaniel. Leander had four sons and one daughter. One of the sons is Edgar, the editor of the Orange Journal. Chauncey G., born 1831, married Emily F. Ward, and has been Collector of Taxes for the city of Orange since 1875. Richard Girard, another son of Job, married Florence Stevens. She died in 1887. Mary, the youngest child of Job Williams, was married to Benjamin P. Mulford and now resides in this city.
